THREE OF THE BROTHERS IN COURT

Two Will Try to Prove the Other

COMMENT BY THE COURT

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., February 11.--Adry Hayward, the brother of the man accused of murdering Catherine Ging, was in the court room today fifteen minutes before the trial began. His wife sat beside him with traces of recent tears upon her cheeks, but Adry maintained a mask of smiles and joviality. When Harry was brought in by the deputy the eyes of the two brothers met, but there was no sign of recognition other than a smile of commisseration on the face of Harry.

Dr. Thadeus T. Hayward, the third brother, was present and was visibly more cordial to Harry than to Adry. It is understood that he will go on the stand and swear that his brother Adry is mentally incapable, and, in fact, insane. When asked this morning whether he would be a witness he refused to either affirm or deny it, and when further questioned as to whether Adry is insane he replied: "If he is not he's been very near it several times in the past."

The direct examination of ex-Mayor Eustis was resumed at the opening of the court with the story of his interview in the Oneida block with Harry Hayward about the loans he had made to Miss Ging.

Mr. Erwin interposed an objection that the information had been obtained under dures but this was everywhal and the duress, but this was overruled, and the ex-mayor repeated the now familiar story. The cross-examination developed nothing but objections from the state, which were sustained and exceptions noted by the de-Adrian Hayward was then called to the stand and a buzz of subdred interest went around the court room. He stated that he was thirty-three and Harry was twenty-nine years of age. He had come to Minneapolis twenty-five years ago from Macoupin county, Illinois, where he was born. He was married and had two children. He was employed in his father's office, where he transacted most of the loan and rental business. Harry was not employed there, but often came there. Harry had told him that last summer and fall he was engaged Harry had also told him that he gambled some. He had told him of having loaned money for Miss Ging and having gambled with her money. At this point Mr. Erwin arose and impressively said:

"I wish to enter an objection here. This witness has a delusion on this subject, and is, in fact, insane." "I don't see," said the court, "that he's any more insane than some of the attorneys in this case."

"I take an exception to the court's rul-ing." retorted Erwin, "and to the court's emarks before this jury." With that remark he sat down and the examination proceeded.
"He told me," continued Adry, "that she held some notes secured by a mortgage on a flour mill at Hamel, and asked me to go out with him to Hamel to see about it. We drove out, and though I advised him against the loan, he made it. Three weeks later he came in and said he had been very lucky, as the mill had burned and he would probably get the money to handle."

ed me if I wanted to make good money. I said yes, and he said I could get about 32,000 if I was not too particular. He asked me if I was willing to kill a woman for $2,000. I said I was not willing to kill anybody. He said it was easy to do it, and nobody would be suspicious of me, as they only looked for a set of criminals who had been convicted of crime before.

"After that he said he knew a hackman that would do anything for him. He said it would be easy to kill her in a hack, and if necessary the hackman could be killed, too. I asked him if the hackman had a tamily, and he said he had. I then said it would be an awful thing to kill a woman. "After that, he suggested getting her drowned in a lake, but that looked too much like suicide and he gave it up. Then he wondered how she would fall if he took her buggy riding and they should strike a boulder, whether she would fall in or out. After that he talked about getting her tangled up in the lines and having the horse run away."

Adry then told how, on the morning of November 6, Harry had come to his flat.

"He took out a package of money," con-tinued Adry, "and asked me if my vault was open. I said 'No." It was election day. went with him to breakfast and he said to say nothing of the money, as he was supposed to be busted. He also showed me a pawn ticket and three diamond rings. he said he was through with me, and that I had not ary nerve. He had found a man, however, who had nerve, an ex-police-man named C. A. Blixt. Then he showed me the bills again, and I made a play to grab them. One of them looked like a hun-dred-dollar bill. All the rest looked like one-dollar buls.

Attended His Own Inquest. LOWESTOFT, England, February 11 .- A man who attended the inquest on the body of one of the passengers of the Elbe, supposed to be that of Edward Mushkowitz, declared himself to be the real Edward Mushkowitz, and said that the body was that of a man named Guttmann, his brother-in-law, who had absconded from Buda Pesth, taking the witness' passport, cards, and securing a second cabin passage to New York. Guttmann, who was accompanied by his brother Adolf and his sister, lost 300,000 gulden in bourse speculations, and made good his losses with the funds of company of which he was a director. Guttmann's sister had booked as "Estelle lolder," and she had 16,000 gulden sewed in her dress when drowned. The coroner's jury expressed themselves as satisfied with Mushkowitz's evidence.

How He Saved His Claim.

SPOKANE FALLS, Wash., February 11 .-A story has just leaked out that a man named Tappings, a bartender, made an attempt to "jump" the famous War Eagle mine, a gold and copper mine in Trail Creek, British Columbia, valued at $1,000,-000. Patsy Clark, the millionaire miner, who is president of the War Eagle Company, was wired at Spokane Falls of the situation and the danger of the mine being "jumped." He, with D. C. Corbin, president of the Spokane and Northern railroad, who is also a stockholder in the mine, ordered out a special engine and coach. and a mile-a-minute galt was struck for Nelson, B.C., 200 miles north of here, where a new license was secured, the old one having expired. Under the Canadian mining laws it is necessary to take out a liconse in order to work or hold any mining property. Clark then immediately returned to the mines, and, showing Tappings the license, induced film to abandon his attempt to "jump the mine."

OPENING THE BLOCKADE. A Large Force Working on Loudoun County Roads.

blockade still continues. Business in Loudown county is at a standstill. Round Hill flour mills are shut down on account of lack of coal. Large numbers of men are at work opening the county roads. No mail has been received since Thursday, but it is hoped that a train will be able to reach here some time this afternoon. Supervisor Lynch has a large force of men working day and night to open the track and he is assisted by several powerful lo-comotives. But it is a difficult task cutting through the immense drifts. R. L. Adams of the relief crew is serious ly ill, suffering from pneumonia. Mr. Hulfish, a farmer of the neighborhood, died Wednesday, and, owing to the storm, had to be buried in his garden, as it was impossible to reach the cemetery.

The weather has considerably moderated, but is still biting cold. Want Their Old Wages. Special Dispatch to The Evening Star. KNOXVILLE, Tenn., February 11.-The ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 11.-Three delegates from the Trades and Labor Union will go to Jefferson City in a few days to request the legislature to take some action against the rule which has been made in several hotels in this city compelling waiters to shave. This was de-cided at the semi-monthly meeting of the Trades and Labor Union, which adopted a resolution requesting the state legislature of Missouri to enact a law making it felony for an employer or his agents to exact such a condition from employes, or those seeking work.

Indians Having a Hard Time. ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., February 11 .-Rev. S. C. Snyder of the Navajo agency at Fort Deflance, who is in this city, says the Indians are having a hard time to exist this winter. Their wool crop was hardly worth shipping and they raised no grain ast year. They are eating their horses, of which they have got herds. Two representatives of the Interior Department are now at the agency investigating the condition of the Navajoes. No work is now being done on the irrigating system that is being put in by the government, but it is exected active work will begin on the ditches in the spring.

American Tourists Robbed. OAXACA, Mexico, February 11.-Three American tourists, whose names are not known, left here about ten days ago for the state of Cniapas, to make explorations of ancient Aztec cities of that section. Advices were brought in yesterday by a mail courier, announcing that the travelers were attacked near the village of San Javier by a band of Guatemala refugees and obbed of all the money and valuables which they carried.

Combine Against Foreign Pottery. PITTSBURG, Pa., February 11.-J. P. Goodwin, D. E. McNichol and George C. Thompson, prominent pottery manufacturers of East Liverpool, Ohio, passed through here on their way home from New York, where they attended a big meeting of manufacturers and jobbers. They said they had formed a combine to shut out from the American markets all European pottery products. Heretofore the manufacturers have sold direct to the retail trade and ignored the jobbers. The latter retallated by handling European goods. They will now get certain concessions, for which they agree to stop handling European pottery.

A TRANSFER AGREEMENT ONLY THREE WEEKS UNDER CAR WHEELS

How Suburban Lines Can Connect With the City Street Railways.

It Will Probably Be Attached to the Metropolitan Railway Bifl That Has Passed the Senate.

An agreement has been reached between subcommittee of the House District committee and the representatives of the street railways in the matter of transfers between city and suburban lines. The agreement is to the effect that four tickets shall be sold PROGRES'S MADE ON IT for 25 cents, one of which will entitle the holder to a ride on the line selling it and also good to the end of the route, within the District, upon the connecting line. Thus, a person could ride from a point on the Washington and Georgetown line to the end of the Tenleytown line for a ticket costing 61-4 cents. Where a person does not buy a quarter's worth of tickets a transfer to the suburban line may be cbained by the payment of 3 cents additional to the original fare.

The District committee will probably as cept this agreement, it is said, and will attach to it the Metropolitan railway bill that has just passed the Senate. That bill provides that the Metropolitan road shall lay from the intersection of 4½ and L streets southwest along 4½ street to P street south a single track of underground electric road; thence east along P street to Water street; thence northwesterly along Water street to L street; thence east along L street to the intersection of $4\frac{1}{2}$ and L streets. THE CASE GOES ON.

Howgate Trial Resumed After a Long Delay.

Juror Fidler having been able to break a road through the snowdrifts, and Mr. A. S. Worthington having recovered from his illness, both appeared in court this morning, and Judge McComas directed the trial of Capt. Henry W. Howgate to proceed. For some reason or other the trial of the ex-disbursing officer of the signal service office has ceased to be a drawing card, and very few persons attended it today. As on the preceding days of the trial the defendant was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Ida Howgate.

Mr. David H. Bates, formerly president of the American Union Telegraph Company, a rival which was subsequently absorbed by the Western Union, was recalled for cross-examination, but not more than three or four questions were asked him by Mr. Wilson when a controversy arose be-tween the prosecution and the defense as to the right of the defendant to inquire as to the scope of the company's business. Mr. Bates testified Thursday last that Capt. Howgate had sent him $4,000 in payment of 60 per cent of two subscriptions of $5,000 each of the construction stock of the company, the voucher importing that the $4,000 were in payment for telegraphic services.

The voucher had been signed by Mr. Bates in blank, and he had been instructed by the defendant to place the stock in his (Howgate's) name, the defendant explaining that Gen. Myer did not wish to take the stock in his name, but that the $4,000 were in payment of both subscriptions.

Mr. Worthington explained that the object of the question was to show that the defendant and his superior officer, Gen. Myer, had sought to encourage a rival telegraph company by subscribing public money. That was, of course, illegal, but if the inquiry was permitted, argued Mr. Worthington, it would show that the de-fendant did not convert the money to his own use, but simply endeavored to benefit the government by encouraging the establishment of a rival to the Western Union Company. Mr. Worthington recalled the Navy Department frauds of several years ago, explaining that a reputable business man then showed in his defense that he had furnished the bureau of medicine and surgery with furniture, although the voucher in payment therefor alleged that he had furnished medicines. As the dealer showed that he furnished the furniture to the extent of the amount called for by the youcher, the case was nolle prossed, said

Ruled Out.

Mr. Wilson also took part in the discussion, contending that as the defendant was not being tried for the embezzlement of the $4,000 the prosecution had simply called Mr. Bates to show a guilty intent in an alleged similar fraudulent transaction. Therefore, said Mr. Wilson, the defendant should be allowed to so interrogate the witness as to show that his intent was not to convert the money to his own use.

Judge McComas, however, ruled that the juestion asked was not a proper one, to cusing the witness.

District Attorney Birney then called Geo. E. King, a clerk in the signal service office in 1879 and 1880. He testified as to the manner of receiving, recording and paying accounts rendered to the office, the object of the prosecution being to show that none of the disputed accounts had been received or recorded Inquest of the Fatal Accident on the Belt Line Road.

> Coroner's Jury Hears Testimony of the Affair Today-How Mr. Woodward Died.

There was a fatal accident at Virginia avenue and 10th street southwest Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock, which was the direct result of the cold weather and condition of the street. Joseph Woodward, the victim of the accident, was a huckster, who lived at No. 140 N street southwest He was walking behind the wagon, which was moving along the line of the Belt line car tracks. There was a car drawn by four horses approaching, and when the drivers of the car horses made an outcry the man on the wagon pulled his horses to the side and got out of the way. The car was only a short distance from the wagon at that time. Woodward, whose head and ears were covered to protect him from the cold, was unable to hear the warning, and he effort to "legalize a gigantic trust," and evidently did not see the approaching car in court to testify to the defendant's ability to remove cancers. He had treated them successfully and they were willing and anxious to tell of what he had done requesting the Minnesota Senators and for he remained on the track and did not heed the warning. The drivers, James Gates and J. Nally, made every effort to stop the horses, but were unable to do so until after Woodward had been knocked down and dragged some distance. The police patrol wagon was called and the injured man was taken to the Emergency Hospital. All the way to the hospital the injured man talked of his wife and child. He realized that he could not bill affecting important railroad mineral lands in Montana and Idaho was disposed recover, and was extremely anxious about those whom he would have to leave be-hind him. When the hospital was reached it was found that his left arm was broken and he had sustained severe in ternal injuries, in addition to several ex-ternal bruises and cuts. His wife was sent for, and she arrived at the hospital employ counsel to recover the sums "stolen by the directors," etc. The resolution also directs the President to protect carly in the evening, remaining there un-til her husband died, yesterday morning. The autopsy, performed by Dr. Glaze-brook yesterday, showed that the severe internal injuries had caused death.

Coroner Hammett made an investiga tion of the case and had the body sent to Wright's undertaking establishment, No. 1337 10th street northwest, where an inquest was begun this afternoon.

Before the Coroner.

Henry Garner, a young man, who was with the deceased at the time of the accident, was the first witness examined. He thought the drivers of the car could have saved Mr. Woodward's life had they pulled the horses from the track. The witness complained that the car bell was not sounded, and said that Mr. Woodward was knocked down before the drivers made an outcry to warn him of danger.

After he was knocked down, said witness, and the car was stopped, one of the drivers told witness to take the injured man away, but he (witness) could not move him without assistance, and the railroad men finally assisted him. "What did Mr. Woodward say to you after he was knocked down?" the coroner

Deputy Coroner Glazebrook testified to be paid in the best money in use."

Mr. Hill asked immediate consideration the autopsy, and said any one of the three injuries sustained would have caused death. He thought it remarkable that the for the resolution, but Mr. Butler (S. GENERAL MARKET REPORTS special Dispatch to The Evening Star. NEW YORK, February 11.-The bond issue and the recent heavy storms were converted into arguments for the depression of stock values at the opening of today's market. The sentiment of the trading element was unmistakably bearish, but the prevailing scarcity of borrowable certificates prevented any pronounced pressure to sell. The short interest has been substantially increased within the last few days, and higher prices would quickly follow any attempt to cover. The presidential appeal for an issue of 3 per cent gold bonds is not expected to avail anything, and last

The court heard the evidence of a numsoon lose its influence as a speculative factor. The advance of 1/2 per cent in the rates or foreign exchange, announced during the early forenoon, was regarded as signifi-cant in banking circles.

Interest centered largely in Northwest as the result of bad earnings and a grow-ing belief that decreased dividends for both the common and preferred stock must follow. Selling by the leading bear operators marked the price down 1 1-8 per cent before any opposition was en-ccuntered. As compared with other members of the granger group, the price of this stock has long been considered slight-ly above the limit justified by a strict application of the rule governing intrinsic value. The loaning rates have served to stay any continuous decline, but the tendency of the stock for several weeks has been in the direction of a lower level, and at the decline there is no change in the ever, in consequence of an exhausted sup-ply of stock for delivery purposes is mo-mentarily expected by the more cautious

Western Union reacted 1-2 per cent on sales attributed to both accounts, and Lake Shore gained 1 per cent on transactions involving only a few hundred shares.

In the industrial list Sugar attracted the bulk of the attention, selling up 1-2 per cent on early trading and reaching to opening figures on realizing sales during the noon hour. Reliable advices relative to the probable outcome of the pending ef-forts to repeal the one-tenth differential duty on imported sugars state that the chances for the accomplishment of this purpose are daily decreasing.

In view of these assurances traders look with more favor on the long side of the property, but are unwilling to take the initiative in the absence of inside interest. The Cordage issues were again under pressure at reductions of 1 1-4 per cent and were the subjects of much adverse comment. The balance of the industrials were given over to duliness and no important changes were recorded.
